About KEYS®

KEYS is a tool designed to help leaders see a clear picture of the climate for innovation within a work group or organization. That climate, also known as the work environment, greatly influences an employee's ability to be creative. The value of KEYS lies in its capacity to accurately identify the conditions necessary for innovation to occur.

As you reflect upon this data, consider the following definitions:

- Creativity - novel ideas that are useful.
- Innovation - successful implementation of creative ideas within an organization.

KEYS can reliably distinguish between a corporate work environment that produces higher innovative results from one that does not, in both technical and non-technical work. KEYS is proven to distinguish between work environments and KEYS dimensions are significantly correlated to the norm group. Work environments that produce highly creative projects and are seen as innovative are rated higher on KEYS dimensions.

This report contains detailed information about how individuals perceive the work environment and its influence on their creativity. The report is divided into three sections:

Dimensions and Item Level Data

This section includes graphs and descriptions depicting your group's or organization's results in comparison to a norm group. The results begin with an overview of the ten dimensions and then narrows to item-level detail. Full descriptions of each dimension and item are provided.

Highest and Lowest Rated Items

This section includes a list of the ten highest and lowest rated items.

Most Important Factors Affecting Creativity and Innovation

This section provides the results for three questions related to the factors that support, inhibit, and could improve creativity and innovation. Respondents were asked to choose the three most important factors for each question. The ten most frequently chosen factors, listed in order from highest to lowest percentage, along with the work context in which they appear are reported for each question.

Key Terms

The terms in the table below are used throughout the KEYS survey. Respondents were asked to use the corresponding definitions when rating the items.

Guide for Interpretation

For all dimensions and items, higher scores are preferred and are generally associated with higher levels of creativity.

KEYS results describe a work environment—not an individual. The work environment is a result of the personalities, styles, policies, and interactions of a great many people, from top management to individual employees in work groups.

Innovation within the organization depends upon (see figure on the right):

- Organizational Motivation – the basic orientation of the organization toward innovation; shared vision; providing rewards and recognition; lack of internal politics, and lack of overemphasis on the status quo.
- Resources – everything the organization has available to aid in the area targeted for innovation, including time, funding, information and materials.
- Management Practices – allowing freedom and autonomy in the practice of work; providing challenge; specifying clear strategic goals and forming work teams comprised of individuals with diverse skills and perspectives.

Respondents used the options below to rate how well items described their current work environment.

Never = 1, Sometimes = 2, Often = 3, Always = 4

The vertical scale on the graph is labeled “Standard Scores.” Fifty (50) marks the average score of similar groups who have completed KEYS.

Standard scores on the graphs range from 20 to 80. Scores of 80 or higher are graphed at 80. Scores of 20 or lower are graphed at 20. Less than 1% of scores fall outside the 20 – 80 range.

Shaded regions are used to help define ranges of scores on the graph; these regions are listed vertically along the right-hand side of the graph:

Very High/VH = score of 61 or above

High/H = score range of 56-60

Mid-range/M = score range of 46-55

Low/L = score range of 41-45

Very Low/VL = score of 40 or below

Because KEYS scores are close to normally distributed, approximately two-thirds of all organization means in the database fall between 40 and 60.

When comparing the scores of any two groups, a 10-point difference is considered a significant difference and could indicate observable differences in behavior.
